Picture Corporation, as Poppea, the heroine of "The Toast of Death," is based on a strong and vital theme which is treated in an unusual manner. It is dramatic in the extreme and affords Miss Wehlen ample opportunity to display her remarkable versatile talents.

Emmy Wehlen, the star of many big dramatic and musical productions in both London and New York, is seen on the screen today in the Ralfe-Metro photo dramatic production, "Her Reckoning." Miss Wehlen is supported by an excellent cast Wednesday "The Christian," adapt-

This stalwart little shoe is the favorite among healthy, active children—children who are full enough of life and energy to give their shoes a good proportion of hard knocks. "THE ROMPER" is built for just such severe use. But it is also a nature-shaped shoe which gives room for all five toes, holds the entire foot structure in correct position and makes it grow right. "THE ROMPER" is a thoroughly, hygienic shoe, well built and of trim style.

You will always be satisfied with its remarkable wear.

CLEVER TABLOID SHOW AT ODEON

"Empress Maids" Get Big Applause in Presenting "Patrick's Funeral."

"The Empress Maids," a merry musical comedy, one of the most successful popular priced tabloid attractions on the road, opened to a capacity house at the Odeon yesterday afternoon, with a lively play called "Patrick's Funeral." Judging from the enthusiasm displayed by the audience the company made a decisive hit.

This show is just a little bit different from the usual run of tabloids and everything is new and up-to-date. The chorus is composed of pretty girls who are good singers and dancers and whose costumes are pretty and unique. The comedy is also very good. Taking the show as a whole it surpasses nine-tenths of such attractions which have appeared at the Odeon this season. Each member of the company works continually for applause and the many encores demanded show that they succeed.

Conditions seem to be going from bad to worse for the one-night stand theatrical companies. This is indicated by a letter just received from Cohan and Harris by Manager Ogden, of the Robinson Grand, announcing that their tour of "On Trial" has been called off and that as a consequence their date for March 22 at the local theater would have to be cancelled. Cohan and Harris regret not being able to play here as they did a good business with their "It Pays to Advertise," but it appears that the one night stand business has gone by the boards.

Thrills crowd one upon another through the five acts of "The Forbidden Adventure," a forthcoming Mutual Masterpiece, the scenes of which are laid in the vicinity of the famous "city of the dead" in Arabia.

Triangle films, which are the product of the greatest living motion picture directors, are marking a new epoch in local film-making as the result of their regular showing at the Bijou theater, which started yesterday. All of the large crowds who have witnessed the opening are "crazy" about the new series.

"The Lamb," in five acts, featuring Douglas Fairbanks and Selma Owens, is a happy blending of pathos, humor and stirring action. The picture illustrates the highest point yet attained in the art of motion pictures. The impression is epitomized by the comment of metropolitan critics, who said: "Triangle plays are plays indeed—and their induction is more than a welcome departure from the conventional 'movie' exhibition, the plays are an innovation and set a new standard for Broadway and theaterdom throughout the country."

"My Valet" in three acts, with Raymond Hitchcock, Mack Sennett, Mabel Normand and Fred Mace in the leads is splendid. Those who see this comedy forget all their troubles. The entire bill is being repeated today.

The Bijou program changes Wednesday when "The Iron Strain," with Dustin Forum, assisted by Enid Markey and Louise Glaum will be presented. The comedy end of the bill will be "A Game Old Knight," with Charles Murray, Mack Sennett and Mabel Normand in the cast.

Robert Hilliard appeared last week in Buffalo, presenting for the first time his new play, dramatized from a story by Wallace Irwin. It was first called "The Pride of Race," but was renamed "What Became of Deegan Folk." The subject is race prejudice.

Billie Ritchie, noted comedian, plays a unique role in "Silk Hose and High Pressure," a three-act comedy that is bringing the laughs today at the Star theater. Several other reels of fine motion pictures make up the program for today.

Tomorrow's feature offering will be "The Lure of the Yukon," a thrilling drama replete with sensations and wonderful scenes of the great Northwest.

Love, jealousy and intrigue, so characteristic of picturesque India, in which the scenes are laid, dominate each of the four acts of "The Toast of Death," a four-part Mutual Masterpiece, produced by the New York Motion Picture Corporation, which is showing today at the Orpheum theater. Army life in India, particularly in Calcutta and in the desolate southland where the British empire maintains numerous posts, is vividly portrayed in this enthralling Masterpiece.

"The Toast of Death," which is from the pen of C. Gardner Sullivan, one of screenland's most gifted writers, was produced under the personal supervision of Director General Thomas H. Ince. The scenes of this unusually interesting Masterpiece are, during the early stage of the piece, laid in Calcutta and later in the far south.
